Descendant's Pomme Cider was an experiment in balance. In their quest for perfection, they searched for a fruit-addition to add to their cider that would create the perfect balance between acidity, sweetness and astringency, the building blocks of all great ciders. What they found was the tannin bomb that is the pomegranate. Simply the perfect fruit to achieve this balance and complexity. They then paired it with a subtle hint of distilled hibiscus flowers for a fragrant floral aroma to cap it all off. This is their version of NYC rosé cider. Glintcap Silver Medal Winner.
