

SFOGLINI

Brooklyn, NY

Small batch, freshly extruded pastas.

About Sfoglini

Sfoglini is a Brooklyn based producer of small batch, freshly extruded pastas made from the finest organic flours in America. They use traditional bronze dies which give their pasta a textured, porous surface for your sauce to cling to. They also dry at low temperatures to preserve nutrition and flavor.

Founded by Steve Gonzalez and Scott Ketchum, the company is a testament to the duo's shared love of the culinary arts. Prior to starting Sfoglini, Steve Gonzalez worked as a chef and restaurant owner for 15 years. While cooking his way through professional kitchens in the US and Europe, he honed his skills as a pasta maker, ultimately heading up pasta operations in acclaimed restaurants like New York's Hearth and Trattoria Majda in Friuli.

Scott Ketchum served as a creative director and graphic designer for 18 years before transitioning into his role as a pasta maker. He currently puts his design and management skills to good use by overseeing brand development, marketing and operations for the company.
