About The Farmer's Hen

The business began with just a few farms, but soon began to grow. In 2000, Mark Miller, took ownership of the company, continuing the tradition of working with area family farmers. As Farmers Hen House continued to expand, Miller's children, Ryan and Rachelle, joined the business. Today, Farmers Hen House operates an egg grading and distribution facility in Kalona, Iowa. It's where eggs from our network of family farms are cleaned, graded and packaged. Our network includes mostly local farms, as well as farms in Bloomfield, Iowa and northern Missouri.
